

San Antonio's Xenex signs national contract with HealthTrust

San Antonio-based Xenex Disinfection Services has signed a national contract with HealthTrust, a purchasing and total cost management group that serves 1,350 acute care facilities.

The contract covers Xenex's Germ-Zapping Robots, which use ultraviolet light to disinfect hospital rooms and medical spaces. The robots are used for infection control and can destroy viruses, bacteria and bacterial spores in a room in five minutes.

The contract took effect June 1, but was announced Wednesday.

HealthTrust serves ambulatory surgery centers, physicians' practices, long-term care facilities and alternate care facilities. Its headquarters are in Brentwood, Tennessee.
