

New iTraumaCare CEO to pursue big growth

Joseph Brennan won't have much time to ease into his new position as CEO of iTraumaCare. His immediate to-do list includes preparing the early-stage medical device company for another round of fundraising and for greater adoption of its core product — the iTClamp Hemorrhage Control System.

"There is an unmet medical need," said Brennan about the challenges associated with hemorrhaging, one of the leading causes of death among trauma victims. "We have a product that is going to change the way that patients are treated."

Source: <http://www.bizjournals.com/sanantonio/print-edition/2014/11/07/new-itraumacare-ceo-to-pursue-big-growth.html>

November 7, 2014